Clemens Awarded Women in Sports

by: Julia Sparling

Women in Sports is a program that has recognized a superior female athlete in each school. Every athlete who is recognized in each school automatically gets to be entered in the Elite 15.

The Wildcat Women in Sports athlete, senior Ashley Clemens, was chosen for many reasons. Clemens was a three-year letter winner on the basketball court, she was named most improved player as a freshman, All-Lake Region Conference honorable mention as a sophomore. As a junior, Clemens led the team in three-point shots and made the third-team All-Lake Conference.

In track, Clemens was a 5-time state track qualifier. She also received the most improved award as a freshman and the longest yard award as a sophomore.

Clemens was a four-year letter winner in volleyball and named the Northwestern rookie of the year. Her junior year, she took a big part in her team's victory at the State B Championship. In Clemens' junior year, she was named Northwestern's will-to-win athlete, made the All-Lake Region Conference team and the Class B all-tournament teams. She was also one of the Aberdeen American News athletes of the week.

During Clemens' senior year, she led the team in kills, points, kill efficiency, digs, serving percentage and blocking. Clemens was also named first-team all-state, and All-Lake Region Conference.

Clemens made the South Dakota all-star volleyball team, Aberdeen American news all-area team, and was Northwestern player of the year and Chester Challenge MVP. She also was an AVCA/MaxPreps athlete of the week. Clemens has had a great high school career as a role model for the younger athletes, and she possesses great sportsmanship on and off the court. Clemens has some incredible talent. Northwestern athletics will surely be missing her next year.

"This is such an amazing honor because throughout the years, I have worked really hard to succeed in what I participate in while balancing school work as well. It is really nice that my hard work, faith, and determination has been recognized," Clemens said.

The awards were presented at 2:45 p.m. that afternoon. The second and first place winners will continue onto Northern State University Science Fair March 21.

Miles Paints Athletic Silhouettes Mural

by: Jordon Peterson

If you have walked through the back doors of the school within the past few weeks, you may have noticed something different. In the hallway from the back door to the parking lot to the gym, there is a new mural being painted. This mural is being painted by senior Kimberly Miles. This mural is made up of various silhouettes of athletes.

The silhouettes consist of athletes that represent the many sports at our school. There is a volleyball player, girls basketball player, boys basketball player, wrestler, cheerleader, football player, and a runner, which will represent both track and cross country.

"It was fun to paint the mural. It is nice to know that I will leave a mark once I am gone," Kimberly Miles said.

The mural can be seen in the little gym hallway.

Students Participate in a Texting and Driving Seminar

by: Haley Grandpre

On Jan. 30, a texting and driving seminar came to the Northwestern School to teach the students about how dangerous texting and driving is. They set up an actual car in the tech room. You were asked to open up an empty text message before you got in the car. Once you got in the car they placed a goggle type of things over your eyes. You could look down and see your phone, and when you looked up into the goggles you saw a virtual road. The assistant told you your speed limit, and then you could start driving. Once you got going they asked you to type a text message. You tried to stay on the road and not hit anything while sending a text.

"I thought it was really fun, but it was hard! Texting and driving is hard and should not be done in actual real life driving," sophomore Carolina Spielman said.

Most students did not make it all the way through the course, but for sophomore Jordon Peterson, she was one of the lucky ones to get through the whole course without messing up.

"Although I successfully passed the test, I would not recommend texting and driving. It is very dangerous. Even though I did pass it, I ended up spelling a lot of words wrong that they asked me to type," Peterson said.

Overall, this seminar was very helpful. It showed students that texting and driving should not be done, and that it is very dangerous.

Junior Skylar Sorenson participated in the texting and driving simulation activity.

Senior Landon Fischbach

by: Maddie Hahler

Senior Landon Fischbach signed a national letter of intent to attend and play basketball at Dakota Wesleyan University. The representative came for the meeting on Feb. 13 during the school day.

"I am excited to be able to continue my basketball career at DWU for the next four years. I would like to thank the coaches and teammates who have helped and pushed me throughout high school to become a better student and athlete. I hope that my hard work and dedication will help me represent Northwestern well in college," Fischbach said.

Boekelheide Qualifies for State Math Counts

Derek Boekelheide

by: Cara Spielman

On Saturday, Jan. 9 the Northwestern Junior High Math Counts team attended the Northeast Chapter Math Counts Regions at Northern State University. The team consisted of 8th graders Derek Boekelheide, Josie Clemens, Peyton Graft, and 7th graders Peyton Graft and Sadie Vander Wal. 8th grader Darby Duncan also went as well.

The team received fifth place overall in the entire competition. Boekelheide placed fifth individually. Boekelheide has qualified for state on March 9. This is his second time going to state. He went two years earlier, as a 6th grader.

"I am glad I get the opportunity to attend state again," Boekelheide said.

Hahler's FBLA Design Selected for State Conference

Junior Maddie Hahler

by: Julia Sparling

Junior Maddie Hahler's Future Business Leaders of America t-shirt design was selected to represent the program at the state conference in Pierre. Her design features the Hunger Games bird symbol, but with some interesting adjustments. This year's theme for the state conference is "igniting innovation."

For the third year in a row, the state conference design has been created by a Northwestern student. Past designs that were selected are that of Kara Fischbach in 2011, and Haley Wetzler in 2012. NW Ink will be printing 200 to 300 shirts for the conference.

"Her design follows the hunger games theme, and it is very cool and very unique. One of the state advisors thought it was one of the best ones they have seen yet. I think she is very deserving!" F B L A adviser Anne Frericks said.

Mr. Jankord will be available only if appointments are made in advance through the school.

This is a FREE service provided by the school district. The screenings take approximately 45 minutes.

If you are interested in having your child screened, please contact Jessica Halvorson at 887-3467 x110 between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. (at least 10 days before the screening) to make an appointment. After appointments have been received, letters will be sent to each family of who has called and made an appointment to verify their time slot for March 18.

Is learning a foreign language beneficial to student success?

Con

by: Haley Grandpre

Learning foreign languages is not a main thing to worry about in a student's high school career. You are never going to have to use it, so why should you take it? I plan on staying in the United States for my college education. We live in America, where the language is English. Why are you ever going to use this? It really is worthless if you plan on staying in the USA.

The only way it will be helpful to take a foreign language class are if you plan on going to a different country. To attend an out-of-state college, you must have a two-year foreign language course. The thing that I just do not understand is why we must do this to go to an out of state college? We live in a country that is fluent in English, not Spanish, German, or any other foreign languages. Anybody should be allowed to go to what college they want without having a foreign language class. I'm not saying that these classes should be dropped, but they should just not be forced to be taken in for two years in high school career.

Let's say that you have other classes to take and have no time to fit in a Spanish course during your four years of high school, but you plan on going to an out of state college. How are you going to fit this extra class in? That's why it should not be mandatory to take a two year foreign language class to go out of state.

If you want to take different language classes, that is great, but for others who want to go out of state, but do not feel like taking an extra class that they probably will not use again ever in their life, why make it mandatory?

Pro

by: Maddie Hahler

Foreign languages are not only beneficial for your future life but often have other hidden benefits.

Taking two years of a foreign language is often required for admission to out-of-state colleges. Many students are unaware of this. Some students even obtain athletic scholarships for out-of-state schools and are unable to even consider it because they lack two years of a foreign language.

The opportunity scholarship often shields the logic of taking a foreign language course. Being as the government wants students to stay in the state, they changed the requirements for obtaining this scholarship. Previously, you had to have two years of a foreign language to get it, but, as of just a couple years ago, they decided to change the requirements from having foreign language to having either two years foreign language or two years of accounting. This seems pretty strange, being as many schools outside of the state require foreign language courses upon admission.

Knowing even a little of a foreign language may very easily put you above the other applicants. This will work in either the workforce or when applying for colleges.

Communication is a key aspect of every culture. Knowing even some of their language may potentially give you an "in" with those possible clients.

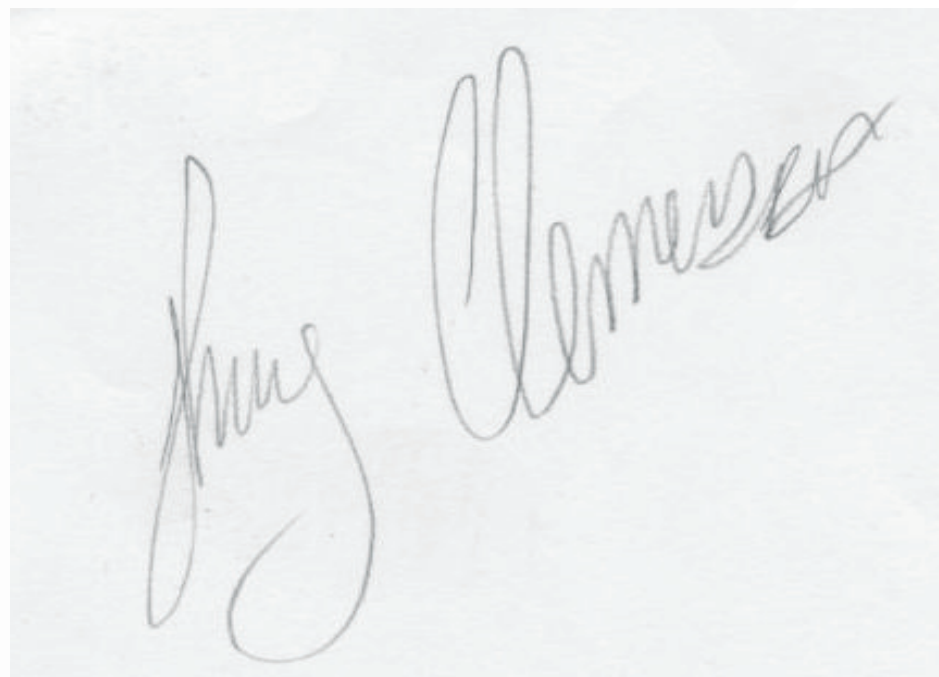

Having foreign languages courses looks great on resumes, are often required by out-of-state colleges and will help you when applying for college or a future job.

Shay's Words of Advice to the Freshmen

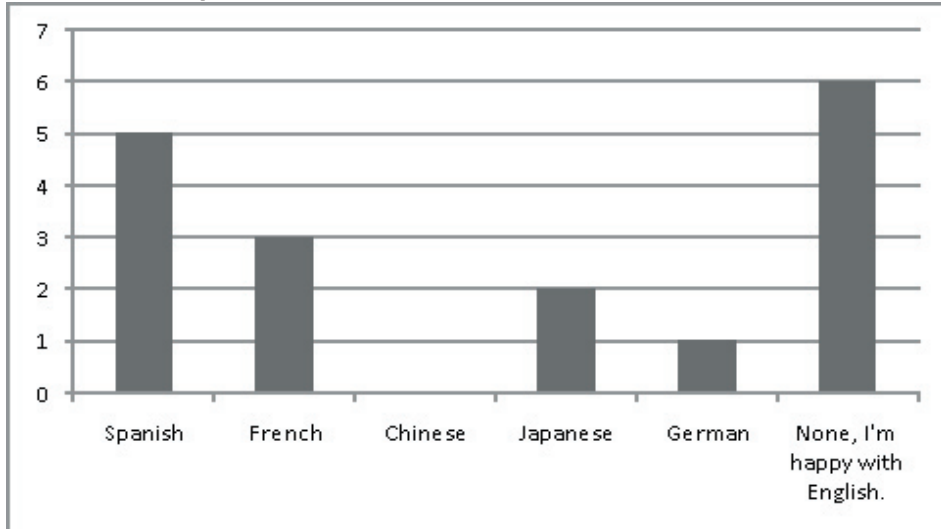

by: Shay Clemensen

This month my advice to the freshmen is that you cannot get away with chewing tobacco on school grounds and during school activities. I do not see how you cannot wait until after school or the sporting event. Obviously, it is illegal to do it on school grounds, but all of you are under age anyway. If it is an addiction at your age, then you have a problem and need some serious help.

"If I took it, I think it would be fun," sixth-grader Caitlyn Fischbach said.

"Awesome!" eighth-grader Josie Clemens said.

"Foreign languages are very important. We have become very worldly; we do lots of communicating around the globe. It's a global market; we need to learn many types of ways to communicate. Students need this for future business and they will be more marketable and be able to pick careers freely. This also helps us to teach our language to other countries," Mr. Chris Osborn said.

2013 Ski-doo Summit

By: Shay Clemensen

I am going to switch gears here and I am going to do a review on a new ski-doo Summit. This year is the reveal of the new body style of the new ski-doo. This body has smoother lines on it compared to the previous model. The new Summit has an 800 cc motor. This new model has a feature that allows the track to bend to the ground for more traction when the rider is boondocking and sidehilling. Boondocking is when the sled is on its side and the rider is driving it in circles. The main choice for mountain riding has a 154 inch track and weighs in at 464 pounds. The new models are narrower than the older one to help the rider maneuver within the trees.

Larry Platt

By: Julia Sparling

Larry Platt, is well-known for his hit song "Pants on the Ground" the he performed on the first round of American Idol season nine. Platt was nicknamed "General Larry Platt" during his season.

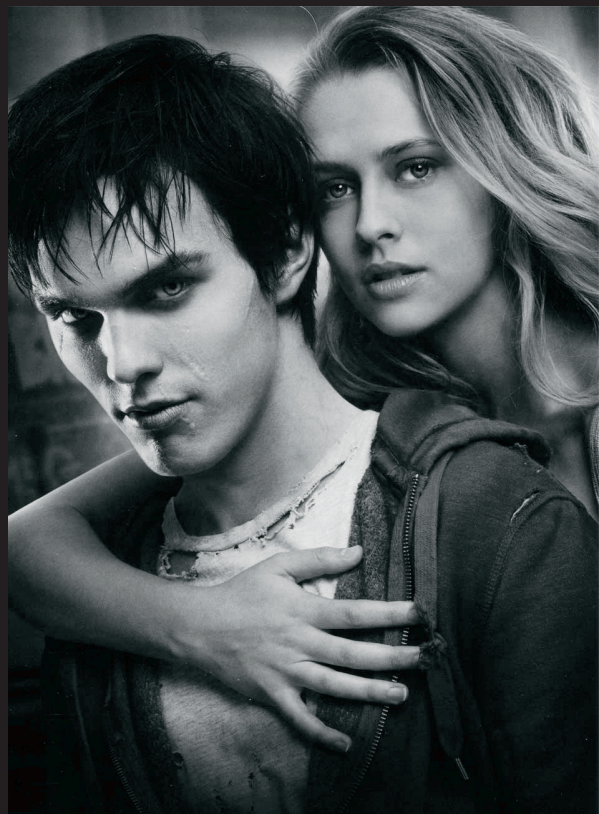

He was 60 years old at the time of this song and said that he was sick of everybody's pants at their ankles so he decided to make a song about it. I think that he is pretty great and very entertaining. Although he did not make it, he got America's attention. Platt more than likely has no future in music.

Warm Bodies

By: Hannah Palmer

Not only was the movie funny, but also kept you very entertained with the love story between R and Julie. R saves Julie after killing her boyfriend and eating his brain to capture memories. He keeps her safe from other zombies and finds her food and keeps her as company. At first Julie is scared of R and just wants to go home. As days go by Julie starts to not be so scared and starts to like R. R doesn't want Julie to go because he is starting to learn how to live again.

Julie then takes R to her dad after realizing that these zombies are starting to change back into humans. This movie is great because it's not just suspenseful movie, but also a great love story! I suggest this movie for teens and adults, its great!

Ruby Tuesday

By: Haley Grandpe

Ruby Tuesday is a very delicious place. It is suppose to be coming to Aberdeen very soon. Ruby Tuesday has a variety of different types of food. It has wonderful steaks and burgers. If you like big burgers this is the place to go.

Also, when ordering your main course there are a variety of sides to chose from. Not to mention their personal homemade biscuits. I really hope that Aberdeen gets a Ruby Tuesday! I think it would help in bringing families to a good sit down restaurant. Just think of it as an Applebee's, but smaller. Families would definitely like take their children to a sit down restaurant like this. I really recommend you to try Ruby Tuesday!
